ARDENNES OFFENSIVE

BATTLE OF THE BULGE, BATTLE FOR ST. VITH, ROAD TO ROME

Ardennes Offensive

Over 90 min of rarely before seen interviews, documentaries, war footage and more from private libraries of veterans from WWII. This action packed and stunning DVD contains the following programs:

“Battle of the Bulge” - In the early morning of December 16th, 1944 the Whermacht launched a massive armored thrust against the thinly held American line in the Ardennes forest of Belgium. Hitler had committed his last powerful remaining armored reserves in a bid to split the allied forces and hopefully recapture the strategic port of Antwerp. As the full might of the offensive hit the Americans, panic ensued, followed by a slowly growing resolve to slow then stop the German onslaught. Nowhere was this spirit more exemplified than at a small crossroads town in Belgium called Bastogne.

“Battle for St. Vith” - As the massed German armored forces thrust into Belgium on the first days of the Battle of the Bulge, a quiet little Belgium town called St. Vith stood between the endless stream of German armor moving west and Hitler’s dream of another miracle victory. Against overwhelming odds, the handful of American defenders made the attackers pay for every foot of ground gained in the little town and in so doing permanently upset the Whermacht’s timetable for conquest.

“Road to Rome” - While the Allied command planned for the Normandy invasion, other Allied armies where fighting one of the most vicious campaigns of the war in the hills and valleys of Italy. Under the leadership of Field Marshall Kesselring, the Germans lived up to their hard-won reputations as being masters of defensive fighting. At places like Anzio, Salerno and Monte Cassino the Allies scratched and clawed to break the German stranglehold and end the stalemate.
