↘The Low Down:

King Street Sounds is proud to welcome Sunshine Jones, formerly of Dubtribe Sound System, San Francisco's pioneering live sound system, to the label's esteemed roster of house music talents. Dubtribe Sound System recently disbanded, completing an North American 'farewell' tour. For the past 15 years, Dubtribe established themselves as one of the American dance music scene's most endearing and inspirational live acts, running their own imperial DUB Recordings label (now defunct), this husband-and-wife 'tour de force' has yielded fruit in the production of five full-length albums, a dj mix album, countless remixes, and a string of singles, including some of the deep house community's most loved anthems of the past several years such as "El Regalo de Amor" for Guidance Recordings, Top 5 UK dance chart hit "Equitoreal", and the international smash "Do It Now". Sunshine will release his debut solo album, Seven Tracks In Seven Days, on Nite Grooves later in 2006. Led by the first single "I Believe"/"I Surrender", scheduled for release (release date here) and already supported by the likes of Terry Farley and Murray Richardson, Seven Tracks in Seven Days is one man's love letter to the raw, stripped down, yet emotional music that captured a generation's heart, mind, and soul. Inspired by the likes of Chicago house music legends Frankie Knuckles, Marshall Jefferson, Robert Owens, Mr. Fingers, and Ron Hardy, Seven Tracks... shows a rarely seen 'electronic' side of
