An Eviltion Official Synopsis and Trailer Here!

To be released November 17th on DVD, the first trailer and synopsis for Eviltion are available for fans below. About an alien parasite that infects the living while resurrecting the dead Eviltion is not just a zombie movie, but an urban tale on crime, military corruption, and the ethics of science. Plus, the film looks like a lot of fun! So, check out the full official synopsis for the film and the first trailer below.

An official synopsis on Eviltion here:

"A microscopic alien life form has been discovered with the ability to possess the living and resurrect the dead. The United States Army tried to communicate with it and failed when they tried to create a genetically altered version of the alien in order to resurrect dead soldiers on the battlefield. The alien fought back; turning soldier against soldier. A young scientist named Darren Hall kidnapped the last pure specimen of the alien, determined to reverse the damage inflicted and learn the secrets of life without end.

He hid himself away in a mysterious apartment building named The Necropolitan to continue his experiments. Then, on one fateful night, the alien is set loose upon the unsuspecting tenants. What happens next is a new evolution in apocalyptic horror as infected tenants attack the unsuspecting, turning them into a cannibal horde. Darren and a small group of survivors must now find a way to destroy the alien possessed before they can escape into the city and bring forth the end of the human race (Brink)."

Release Date: November 17th.

Director: Chris Conlee.

Writer: Brian Patrick O'Toole.

Cast: Erik Peter-Kaiser, Sandra Ramirez, Tim Colceri, Noel Gugliemi, and Guillermo Diaz.
