3Buggirl come all the way from Australian playing high octane old school rock and roll.

4The band consists of siblings, Amber (guitar and vocals) and Clinno (drums and vocals)

5Spence. They formed in 2003 and released an album in 2005 titled "Looming Shadows".

After an international tour with some guy named Peter Pan Speedrock (I to hear that), they recorded "Blood, Sweat & Beers".

This five song shitfest starts with the title track. I don't know where to start. First off from the beginning you can hear how thin this album sounds with no bass. If they did manage to put bass in here, you can't hear it at all. I don't usually notice it a whole lot, but here it is painfully evident. The vocals, are niney-five percent Amber, and there really isn't anything wrong with them. However, after five songs and over 20 minutes, her tone gets grating. She also puts a whole lot of "attitude" into her singing which gets a bit old, but it is exactly the stuff some bar slag would love.

I think this whole album just reminds me of husky white biker women playing pool. You know the type, black jeans, black tucked in Harley Davidson shirt, shitty denim vest, Harley patches, short chopped hair, and enough crow's feet to start a whole flock. They drink Bud Light and smoke Marlboro Lights 100's and leave every night in their shitty late 90's SUV covered in Harley stickers. They are loud and obnoxious because the bikers like it. Well, they suck almost as much as this EP.

I should have known better from the description. It said something like "sibling rock, female vocals, sounds like AC/DC". I regret to say that was pretty damn accurate. I don't know what came over me to think this could be decent. This really does nothing at all for me other than make me uncomfortable.
