

SEARCH BLOG

FLAG BLOG

Next Blog»

Create Blog | Sign In

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 2008

Living Colour: CBGB OMFUG Masters: August 19, 2005 The Bowery Collection Review

For those who don't know Living Colour, think Bad Brains, and swap the punk for hard rock. Oh, you don't know who the Bad Brains are either? Well I guess I should have figured that if you don't know one, you probably wouldn't know the other. Well to put it simply, they are an all African American band which fuses hard rock, funk, rap, punk, jazz, and whatever else you could think of. While rising to fame, the band was a regular at the historic CBGB, and luckily, their final performance at the late club was captured here.

One of the major reasons people buy live albums is to get the feeling like they were there. To hear the roar of the crowd as the band walks on stage, and to hear all the chatter in between songs. Unfortunately that's an aspect which is edited out far too much on live albums today. We get snippets from different shows smashed together with the facade of a live album, when it's really nothing more than a rawer studio album. Living Colour held their end of the bargain and delivered a straight forward live album with all

ABOUT ME

JEFF
NJ, UNITED STATES
VIEW MY COMPLETE PROFILE

PREVIOUS POSTS

Another Week Another Vinyl: The Kinks: Misfits

Interview With Kristoffer Ragnstam

How to Get Your Free Dr. Pepper Thanks to Axl Rose...

Inside Bob Dylan's Jesus Years: Busy Being Born...Ag...

Queen + Paul Rodgers "Let the Cosmos Rock" Giveawa...

Bob Dylan: The Bootleg Series Volume 8: Tell Tale ...

Another Week Another Vinyl: The Beatles: The Magic...

Credence Clearwater Revival 40th Anniversary Albu...

Another Week Another Vinyl: Metallica: Kill 'Em Al...

Hell May Actually Freeze Over! Chinese Democracy ...

top headlines from the

MOG MUSIC NETWORK

the banter, roaring, and rawness of the actual event. The performance was taken directly from the sound board. The quality is far from stunning, but we should never expect much more from a pure and raw experience. Sometimes it's the unpolished sound which makes a live album feel that much greater.

This recording captures all the exuberance and passion of a Living Colour performance. The songs are loud and brash, and demand your absolute attention with all the intriguing social commentary delivered in each of their songs. Highlights of the show are "Open Letter to Landlord", "Terrorism" and of course, "Cult of Personality". Living Colour may be nothing more than a blip in rock history, but their talent goes sadly overlooked, and after hearing this performance, I wish I could have been there.

Grade: B

POSTED BY JEFF AT 10:30 AM

2 COMMENTS:

 d.edlen said...

Well written! Makes me want to check it out, for sure.

I've always dug the live bootleg way more than the live officially available album. One of my exceptions to that is Genesis Live.

12:13 PM

 Jeff said...

My favorite live recording is definitely a bootleg. It's a King Crimson recording before their debut was released. The passion in the music was so intense.

2:29 PM

POST A COMMENT

<< Home

Jack White and Thom Yorke Join Forces
[RTD BGDB] Lady Saw Serani Mavado Vybz Kartel Assassin - "Unfinished Business" Soundclash
Musician and Drum-Maker Dies After Contracting Anthrax from Animal Skins
'Help, I'm Alive' . New music from Metric >>
Bonnie "Prince" Billy to Release "Beware," His "Most Ambitious" LP to Date
We All Love Kanye. So Why is he such a CRYBABY?!

WHERE CLASSIC ROCK AND MODERN ROCK MEET